

Management for peace

- Universidad de Los Andes School of Management (UASM) show-case -

Bart van Hoof, PhD,
Associate professor,
School of Management,
Universidad de los Andes, Bogota, Colombia,
bvan@uniandes.edu.co

Nairobi, 9th of November 2018

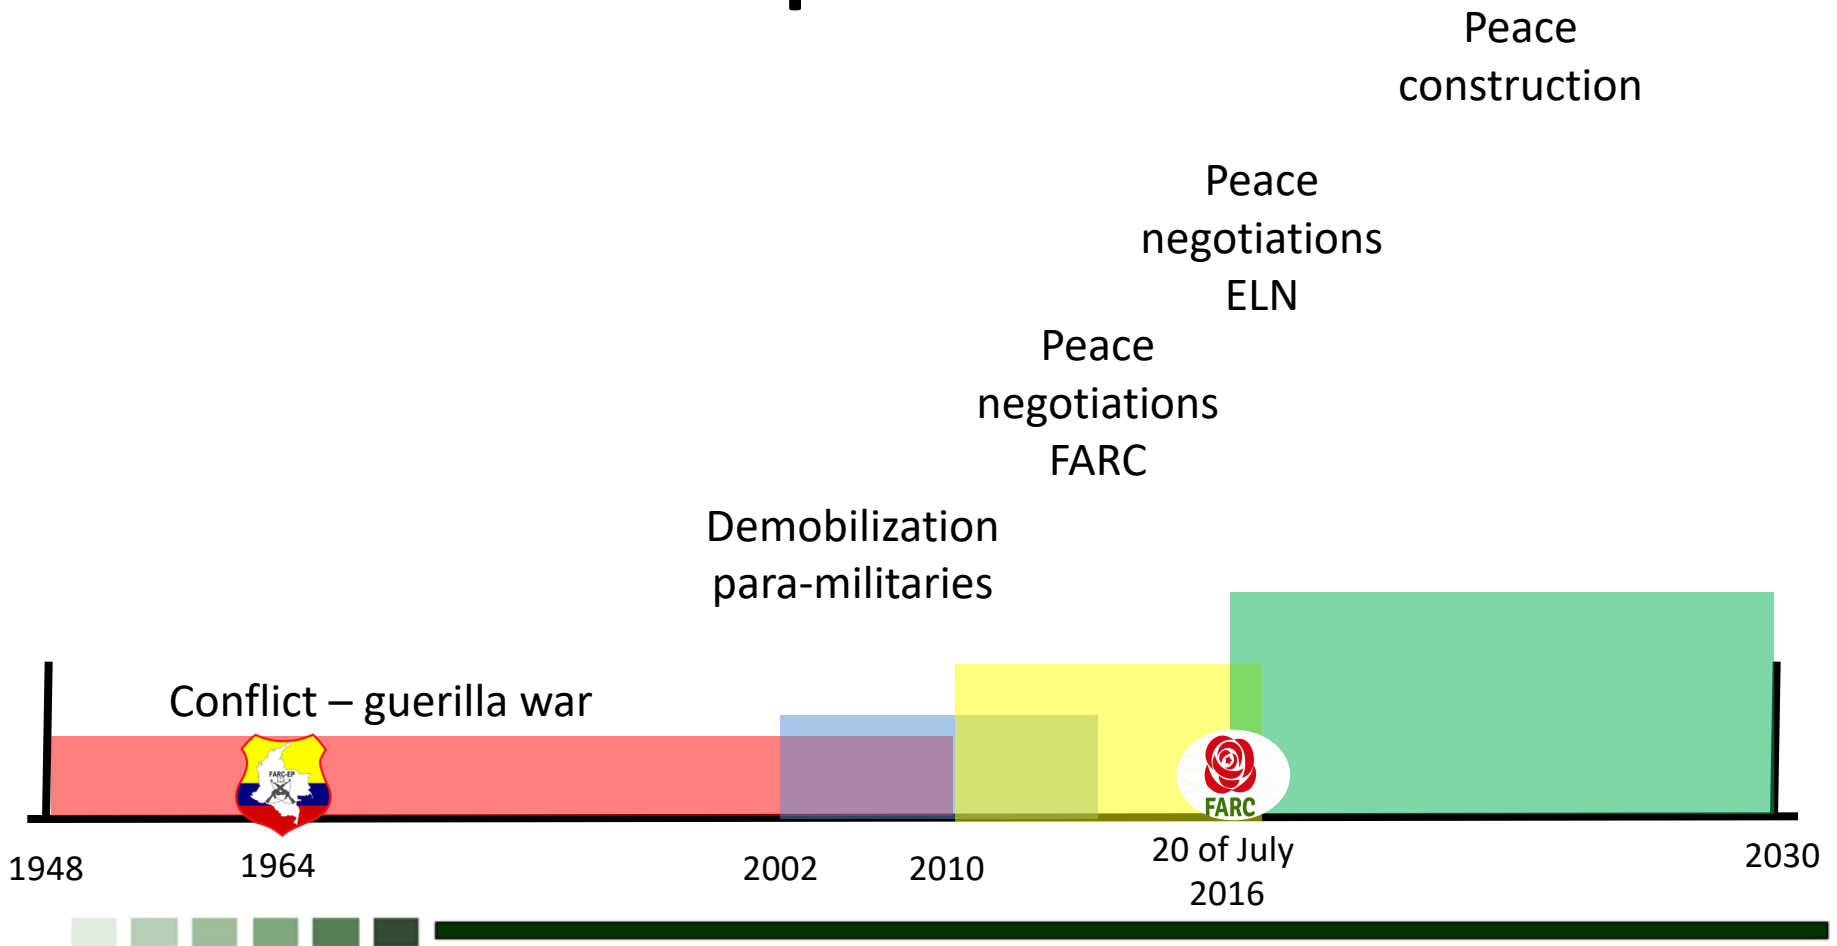

Content

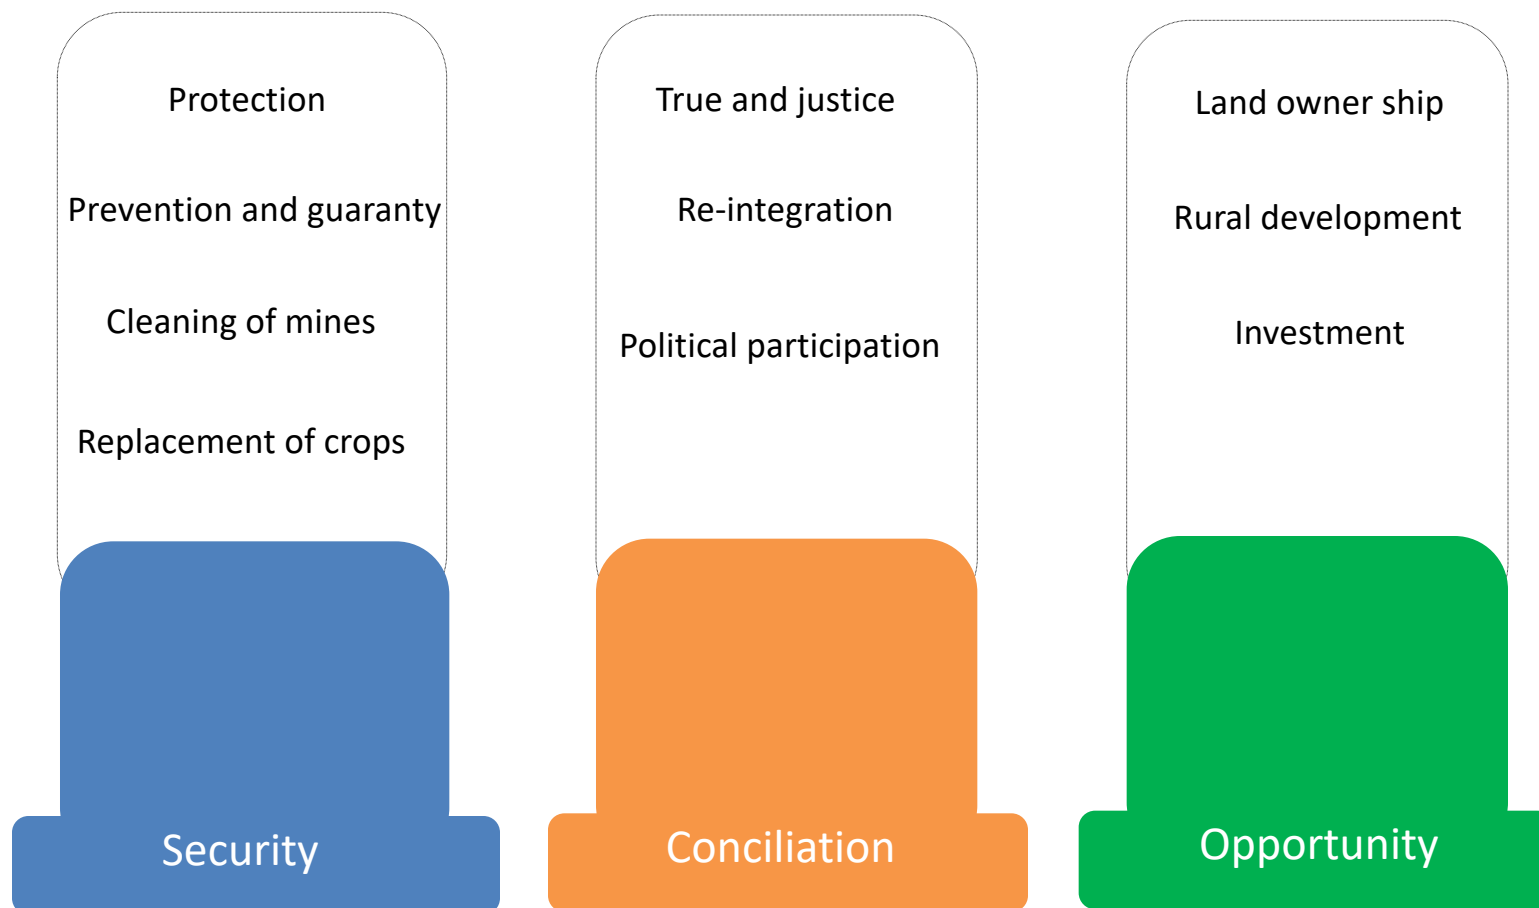

1. Back ground of the Colombian conflict and peace process
2. The role of management in the peace process – UASM show case
3. Perspectives

Background of the Colombian peace process

Pillars of the peace process

Management for peace

1. Peace requires inclusive managerial decision-making paradigm
2. Development of opportunities and new jobs
3. Building of trust in value networks
4. Management of peace-funds

UASM show case of Management for peace

Inclusive decision-making

- Public management course
- Peace day (“dia PIAS”)
- Master in Development Practice (MDP)
- Master in Environmental Management
- Consultancy practicum in ex-conflict zones

FACULTAD DE
ADMINISTRACIÓN

Building trust in value networks

- Sustainable agro-business program (MAS)
- Sustainable enterprise network program (RedES)
- Territorial governance

Entrepreneurship for new jobs

- Agro-entrepreneur program for ex-guerrillas
- Farmers market

Management of peace funds

- Amazon vision (Vision Amazonia)
- Incentives
- Investments

Perspectives

1. Management for peace as a field for academic enquiry
 - Inclusive and collaborative management
 - Entrepreneurship in agribusiness
 - Finance of peace process
2. Exchange of experiences -> global conference on management for peace
 - Peer learning
 - Positioning of management education
3. Strengthening UASM's leadership in management for peace
 - Sustainability as part of the schools mission
 - Enhancing and scaling transdisciplinary management research
 - Communication and positioning -> "action for change"

Management for peace

- Universidad de Los Andes School of Management (UASM) show-case -

Bart van Hoof, PhD,
Associate professor,
School of Management,
Universidad de los Andes, Bogota, Colombia,
bvan@uniandes.edu.co

Nairobi, 9th of November 2018

