

Global School in Empirical Research Methods 2020

10 GSERM scholarships

We are pleased to offer up to ten scholarships to applicants from GBSN member schools in Africa or Afghanistan to the University of St. Gallen's Global School in Empirical Research Methods (GSERM) in Switzerland in June 2020.

GSERM is a high-calibre integrated program teaching methodology for PhD students and postdocs from leading universities all over the world. The program offers an attractive course-based learning atmosphere on different aspects of empirical research. GSERM is structured in different modules. Participants select one course per week as these courses are taught concurrently.

The scholarship will cover tuition and accommodation fees for up to two consequent weeks. Applicants can choose one session, or two sessions (Session II [8-12 June] or Sessions II [8-12 June] and III [15-19 June]), and indicate the selected courses for each session(s) in their application. For an overview on all courses offered, please visit (<http://www.gserm.ch/stgallen/>) The scholarship will cover the cost of the course(s) and accommodation costs. Applicants will need to cover all other costs (flight, visa, living expenses, insurances, etc.).

To apply, please prepare the following documents:

- Detailed CV
- Last transcript or diploma
- Motivation letter
- Color copy of your passport (personal data and photo)
- Application Form (attached)

Applicants must complete the full application AND send all of the required documents to the Global Business School Network by March 13, 2020 to qualify for a scholarship. Applications will be reviewed by a selection committee at the University of St. Gallen. Only fully completed applications will be reviewed. Please email applications to nzefran@gsbn.org with "GSERM SCHOLARSHIP PhD" in the heading.

For more information please contact Nicole Zefran (nzefran@gsbn.org) or visit <http://www.gserm.ch/stgallen/>

Eligibility requirements:

- 1) Enrolled PhD students at GBSN member school in Africa and Afghanistan
- 2) Not older than 35 years, younger applicants will be preferred
- 3) Convincing motivation letter
- 4) Excellent grades and performance

Please mind the deadline for submitting your application. Please only apply if you can afford travel and living expenses as well as costs for visa and insurances.
